LIEBERMAN'S WARNING In an address to the first Herzl Conference on Contemporary Zionism organized by the World Zionist Organization on Jerusalem's Mount Herzl on November 6, former senator and vice-presidential candidate Joe Lieberman warned that support for Israel was waning among certain sectors in the US. "There are parts of the American political spectrum where support for Israel is dearly diminishing," said Lieberman, who now heads a bipartisan advocacy group named United Against Nuclear Iran. "I am not by nature an alarmist, but amidst the continuing encouraging facts on the ground, I see storm clouds gathering."
